Some Tall Reckoning.

Some Tall Reckoning.

What is a Billion?—Or, rather what conception can we form of such a quantity? We may say that a billion is a million of millions, and conceasily represent it thes: 1,000,000,000,000. But a school-boy's calculation will some whose entirely the mind is incapable of conceiving such numbers. If a person were able to count at the rate of 200 in a minute, and to work without intermission twelve hours in the day, he would take to count a billion 6,944,444 days, or 19, 225 years 319 days. There are living creatures so minute that a hundred millions of them might be comprehended in the space of a cubic inch. They are supplied with organs and tissues, nourished by circulating fluids, which must consist of parts or atoms, in reckoning the size of which we must speak, not of billions. Dut perchance of billions of billions? The number is a quadrillion, and can he casily represented thus: 1,000,000,000,000,000,000; and the same echool boy's calculation may be employed to show that to count a quadrillion at the rate of 200 to the minute would require all the inhabitants of the globe, supposing them to be a thousand millions, to count incessant-life in the same of the globe, supposing them to be a thousand millions, to count incessant-life in the same shousand millions, to count incessant-life in the same shousand millions, to count incessant-life in the same shousand millions, to count incessant-life in the period during which he human race has heen supposed to be in existence.—American Social Cazette.

Woe! was the one cry with which He met the teachers and professors of His time, provoking their bitterest hate and animosity. "Making clean the outside of the sepulchre, while within are dead men's bones," was His short description of them, and their doings. He upset the site little fashions which had sprung up around the Temple worship with a whip of cords. "Publicans and harlots shall enter the kingdom hefore you." Making Homes Happy

The Aim of a New Work,

The Aim of a New Work.

"A happy honce," asy'n n well-known writer, "is the best and surest safeguard against evil; and where home is not happy there the Devil may freely enter and find his hands full." And, further, "it is not too much to say that the prosperity or average of the condition of its home life." In story-books it is taxen for granted that the young married copple starting out under hissafu conditions will live happy ever after, and some of the failures in real life arise from the fact that home happiness is anti-cipated as a matter of course, instead of being cultivated by wisdom and love, and rateguarded with the care which no fragile a flower requires.

This latter duty devolves upon the homemaker. Upon the husband, i.e., "house-band," fail the duties of support and protection—the old idea of the word was that he formed a band of protection and security around the home. But the centre of the home is the woman. From her will ectanate the gentler graces, the subtle comforts that make every true home the dearest spot on earth to the unembers of the household, and held as the tenderest posterior, and apace have separated them from the one who was its cultre.

It is to teach women the secret of making such homes as these that the Home League was inaugurated by Mrs. Rooth between three and four yearn ago. It has made rapid strides, and now, under Mrs Commissioner Eddie, who is National Secretary for theague, there are branches all over Edgiand.

Mrs. Commissioner Higgins has a epiendid branch of the Home League with the secret. The Deliver:

Westminster Abbey is, perhaps, the most renowned Christian centre of pligrimage for the Anglo-Saxon world. There lies the dust of countless seems princes, nobles, and leaders in every line of learning, or effort, and thither come thousands of every race to look, to admire, to giver, and thrust come incusants of every race to took, to admire, to talk about architecture and every other human achievement; but despite all the efforts of the clerky of the Abbey, we fear that not as many of the visitors as could be wished are led there to think of God or seek His

One gloomy day, some seven years ago, there came in a poor miserable woman. Drink had reduced ber, outwardly as well as inwardly, to the very lowest depths of degradation, so that she looked anything but fit for sessolation with most of the visitors to the Abbey.

She sank upon her knees in a seat and mumbled a perhaps only to audible appeal to God to have pity upon her and help her.

Abuse appear to come to have pary upon ner and neep ner.

Almost immediately, she felt the touch of a policeman's hand upon her shoulder. Beckoning her to follow him out, the constable said: "My

She returned to the Abbey one day this year, and knelt, as nearly as she could recollect it, on the very same spot to thank God, with flowing tears, for all the mercy and goodness that she had experienced during the intervening years, which had transformed her from what she then was to the well-uniformed, respected householder and Sergeant of a London Corps that she is to day. And yet she is only one of the many thousands of our people who delight to pray, in all possible places and positions to day, because they have found Him, who hears and answers the sinner's

We find only too great a majority of people even to-day who find it extremely irks one to get on their taces, and, with few exceptions, our Soldiers, after having been for years accusate meeting to pray, have had to train their knees to endure it. Swedes are, by no means, Exely people to do extravagant things in the way of too obtrusive religious work. Yet the following story, Swedish Officer the other day, shows that to them, as to all their comorders, prayer in a train is natural enough.

"Whilst using some minutes" wait to walk along a railway platform I heard a quiet "hallo" from one of the carriages. I looked up. Could it be a call to me? Yes, it was a well-dressed young man, who begged to have word with me. I was just about to reply that I was going with the sam train, and that we could talk on the journey, when I noticed tears running the young man's cheeks.

down the young man's cheeks.

"Such a young, well-dressed man, crying on a beautiful spring day!
"You seem to be in sorrow," I said, as I stepped into his compartment.
"Can I, perhans, he of service to you in any way?"

"Yes, indeed," he replied, "I am the unhappiest man in the world, and I do not exactly believe man shall do not exactly believe man shall do not exactly believe man shall do not exactly believe man.

and I do not exactly believe you can help me; but as soon as I saw tho uniform I thought: "Those men want to help the miserable ones, and I will, anyhow, have a word with nine." That is why I called you."

What Occurred in a Swedish Train.

"As we journeyed, he told me his story. He was in no outward need. He had just left a good situation, much to the regret of his employer. "I cannot live any longer, either there or anywhere, he said; "I am just going to see one friend, and then I'm done with this life. It is no use to some to see one trient, and then 1 m done with this sine. It is no use to talk to you about its emptiness, and yet it relieves one to talk to so meone I believe to be sympathetic. Happily we had got the compariment to ourselves, and so could speak now. Itely, I just let him to an whits I maved to God to give me stace and wisdom to be of the most use to him. And God's Spirit helped me so quickly that the young man got to see both his sin, as the great ground of his troubles, and God's readiness to save, if he would only give up tody and soul foil, to Him.

"Oh, what a hattle went on in that young man's heart! But the good Spirit won We knelt together, and had a Prayer Meeling that went on whilst we rode for miles. Whilst the sun was sinking in the west, the

"Then the young man took out from his breast pocket a little white thask, and as we justed a rocky gully he flung it so that it was broken in many pieces far below us; but I felt that his sins had been cast away just us completely, and we paried with promises to meet each other often, in traver."

Just the other day I beard of a similarly successful Prayer Meeting in a German train. So long as our knees are ever ready for prayer, anywhere, God will give us visitly everywhere Chapter II, under the following (Rie is of exceptional inteless):

The General's 81st Year.

The celebration of The General's 50th Litthday was one of the import-al events of the just prov. and was the more recurrishle in that it was observed even more strikingly without than within the United Kingdom.

The Guelph Band gave a very fine programme in the Hall on Thursday, August 11th. "The Rock." "Chalk Farm," "Pentre," "Experience," and "Redemption" were among the Items played. Bandsmen Archie Dawson and Ernest Ford soloed. The centre of attraction was the piano presented to the Corps by the Bell Plano and Organ Co. Everyone says: "What a beauty!" and so it is, finished in mission style, it is "a thing of beauty," and has such a lovely tone that it promises to be "a foy forever." Just above the keywoard is a small plate with the Inscription: "Presented to The Salvation Army by the Bell Plano and Organ "o."

The Edmonton Band visited Fort Saskatchewan July 31, and conducted seven meetinge, including one at the Police Barracks, which thirty-nine prisoners attended. This latter was a most impressive meeting. As the Band played and the Bandsmen gave testimosies to the power of God to save and to keep, the prisoners one after another would burst into tears. In his cell in the gad was the prisoner Oscar King, awaiting the day of his execution (Tuesday morning last). Although not allowed to attend the meeting out in the yard, we learned from his guard that he listened to the music and took in everything that he could hear most attentively. It was whilst the Band played "Rock of Ages" that he fell down at his cot, troken down by the memories it brought to him. The Band played several pieces outside of his cell window.

The Vanceuver No. II. Band, accompanied by Lieut. Col. Turner and Ensign Goy, visited Nanaimo on Saturday and Sunday, July 23 and 24, and had a very interesting and profitable time. Arriving in the city, the Band and Officers marched to the hall, Atter tes they had a fine openair meeting. A splendid service of praise was conducted in the Hall. On Sunday morning the Band marched to the Methodist Church, where Lieut. Ool. Turner gave an address and the officers sang two ducts.

LIEUT.-COL. AND MRS. SHARP.

AN INTERESTING WRITE-UP OF AN EVENTFUL CAREER

EUT. COL. JOHN DOWIE SHARP, who will, is short time fornia, has been an Officer over twenty-six years, nearly twenty-five of which have been spent in the Canadian Territory. He was born in a little village near Cupar, in Scotland, in 1861, and 28 years later was born into the Kingdom of God When The Army opened fire in Cupar When The Army opened fire in Cupar John Sharp became a soldier, then Candidate for the Work. After two years' soldiership he was promoted to the rank of a Lieutenant and sent to open up Tayport, a small village on the coast of Fife, near his own home. A great soul-saving work took piece, and many of these converts are now to the fore. Following Tayport came a term in the Clapton Training Home.

Home.

After the Training Home came the command of Widness Corps, having as his Lieutenant our comrade who is now Lieut.-Col. Howeli of the Immigration and Transportation Department as his Lieutemant our comrade who is now Lieut.-Col. Howell of the Immigration and Transportation Department.

Under the direction of Captain Sharp and Lieut. Howell The Army made good progress in Widness. Then came Sandheach, where he was left alone to face a famine, as a bigatinke was then out and nut been for some time, and the people were littransportation. He, however, went in to visit the poor and relieve their distress, and point them to Him Who never falled in supplying the needs of those who trust and ohey Him. Three times he had his farewell orders from this place, but was held by public petition. About three hundred were saved here, and the difference was very marked, as on going into this place he had to strap on the drum and the the flag to the drum, and shouting he went our in, the strength of the Lord, for his singing was not of great consequence in those days. This may be an encouragement to those who feel that they are of no use for the want of greater qualification, such as playing on instruments and being able to sing like nightingsite. The onen airs when he left this place would total from seventy-five to one hundred every night. Liverpool V. was his next compand, and a good work for God was accomplished in that quarter of this great city. Then came Lower luce, where they had four hundred conver luce in the midulent train for London and the farewell of the man of line of luce and contained his farewell orders. On the Monthe he had some business on Turnsdu has he farewelled, and left on the midulent train for London and on Saurday he sailed for Canada.

When he went down to the boat he met left on the midnight train for London, and on Saturday he sailed for Canada.

When he went down to the boat he met Captain Howell, who said: "Helio, old boy, I thought you would come down to see me off. I had that impression." But he was surprised when Captain Sharp told him that he, too, was bound for the Dominion, the first Corps that was given the young Scotchmain was the re-opening of Campbellford. There a great revival took place, the whole town was stirred, and the name of Captain Sharp in one yet remembered in that city, atter this came Toronto I. The same thing happened in this place. Over one hundred soldiers were added to the roly. After this came Coburg, which was then very hard ground. It was rather difficult getting a commencement there, as things had got down very low, but visitation having been a strong point with the Captaing into the house of one who was very bitter against The Army, and who would scarcely be civil, he picked up bitter against The Army, and who would scarcely be civil, he picked up the baby who was running about the floor, and began to praise the little felow, and began to praise the little felow, and atter a while was the means, in the hands of God, of leading both herself and her husband to Jesus Christ. Won by a kiss.

Another case that made a great ing both herself and her husband to Jesus Christ. Won by a kies.

Another case that made a great impression in the town was the tol. lowing up of a backslidden drunkard. In one day he followed him to four-teen different saloons and dorth that he would simply go into a storak that would simply go into a storak that he would simply go into a storak that he would simply go into a storak door into another hotel. The captain followed him, shock to him, and gir him home where he was in the horrors, and was going to kill his life, when a policeman came for him bout the Captain said: "No, he is one of my sheep. I am his shepherd, and I will be responsible for him." The policeman then told the Captain that if he would be responsible for him." The policeman then told the Captain that if he would be responsible for him be would leave him in his charge. The Captain go him solvered, tock him oft to the meeting, and later got him converted; and for months fixed an irreproachable life, but syddenly died and went to meet God redeemed Another case was a woman who was teld in bed and could not help herand went to meet God redeemed. Another case was a woman who was sick in bed and could not belp berself. The Capitain went and cleaned out her house, scrabbed the floors, cooked for her, looked after her carden, saw that it was planted, and led her to Jesus Christ. There was seeminally no one at all to look after her. These changes were so real that an impression for good was made on that town, and a great revita wave also istruck the place.

Promotion to the rank of Adjutant on that town and a greet revival wave also struck the place. Promotion to the rank of Adjutant followed, with the charse of the London Division. Then followed the Ottawa Division, and the Wooder of Division, with the rank of Staff Captain. The Toronto Division followed, with the Hamilton Division dater it. A change was then made in the oversight of the work in Canada, and the Staff-Captain volunteered to take albstrict, and also a Corps. Kingston District was then filled successfully for a while, after which he was appointed to the Chancellorship of the East Ontario Province. Then followed his promotion to Major, and appointment to Newfoundland as Provincial Officer, where a very happy and peful time was spent in biesming and helping on the flaber folks of the Island Colory. Then back again to the East Ontario Province, as Provincial Officer, where after a happy stay he left to go back for the scending to the Streekdown in the Provincia Command. He is very much leved in the slewer and the prevence is always welcomed. From there he went to the Essiera always welcomed.

Salvation Work in Lapland.

A Great Fish Eater.

A Great Fish Eater.

Work amongst the Lapps is carried on by our Officers from Norway, Sweden, and Finland. During a journey of our leaders in the latter country of 250 miles by sledge, their driver through the forests was a Laplander, who had been converted in their Meetings a year ago. On the way a herd of ten thousand reindeer was passed, so that there is evidently no prospect of any lessening of the aced for our work amongst these scattered people, whose existence depends entirely on their herds. Pour Swedfall Officers are set upart entirely to work amongst these wandering sort of Lapps who have only herds of 50 to 200 reindeer generally.

They are a people somewhat sim-

They are a people somewhat similar, to the gypsis in their contentment with a rough tentility, and little secustomed to intercourse with strangers, so that our Comrades found their visits very much dreaded at first. They could only steer their way over hill and dale to the people's tents by the snoke, and when near the visitor would be surrounded by an assemblage of savage dogs. But at last a sort of centre was found from which to set out, and by walking about twenty-five miles per day the Officer was able to get to a number of tents. During each of his first eleven years amongst them Adjutant Lander walked 2,210 miles, travelled 1,000 miles by train, 200 by beats, and 167 with ponles. Many a time he would get astray in fog or snow-storm, and have to lie out, and for seven or eight weeks at a time he would never see a coin.

He found it trying at first to get accustomed to the people's food, consisting simoet exclusively of reindeer flesh or fish, when breat such pulstose are rare luxuries. The reindeer flesh is cut into small pleces, and coffee is poured over it on the plates. Upon one occasion, when he had been without food for two days, the Officer got into a tent where a man was preparing to eat some large fish. The Officer sat and watched him consume one after another, always expecting to be offered a share. But it was not till the man had finished aix fish that it occurred to him to ask whether his guest also had any appetite. Our Officer gradually made himself known amongst the people, and then found them most generous. They would get up and give him their place to lie down as warmly as was possible; and when, on some visit to wome to sell skins, wheat they had genery, they would freely give What's your plan?"

You must have suffered much." "Yes," comes the answer in frous voice, very quiet, but full of deepest feeting. 'And do they all know about it?" "Oh, no! Only a few in Palestine

Well, Master, what's your plan? What have you done about telling the world that you have died for them?

"Well," the Master is supposed to and John and Andrew, and some more of them down there, just to make it the business of their lives to tell ethers, and the others are to tell ethers, and the others others, until the last man in the farthest circ's bas beard the story, and has felt the brilling power of it."

Some of them are simply shuffling through life, some of them are floating about like a piece of driftwood from a passing steamer caught in an eddying current. Some are waiting for something to turn up, some are in the ranks of the nnembloved, some have sunk to the level of the "submerged" classes, some are spending the'r time in the midst of evil companionships.

"I sent for you, Bill, to say good-bye; I'm going to d'e, and I'll meet you in Hell, for its your fault I'm dying in a place I would not dare to have my mother see." Some weak men are lounging in the bar-rooms and low places, where drink is to be had. It would be a good thing for them to read the will of a drunkard who died in Oswego, N.Y., the other day. He left the following as "his last will and testament":

"I leave to society a ruined character, a wrotched example, and a memory that will soon rot. I leave to my parents as much sorrow as they can, in their weak state, bear. ! leave to my brothers and sisters as much shame and mortification as 1

How are men to obtain the power to be made a true ideal of manhood?

That prince of men, Paul, gives explicit instructions: "In the grace that is in Christ Jesus." That is the secret, a partaker of the life of the ideal man the Godman. He is not only the great example for all men, but in Him is the Life which makes a Christian manhood possible. It is the right of every man to choose his destiny, in so far as his higher his spiritual, and moral nature is concerned. He may choose whom he will serve. Byron wrote: "Nothing is so difficult as a beginning." Men, brothers in the great human family, perhaps to day you are at the parting There is a legend in of the ways. mythology with reference to the Grecian bern Hercules who sented strength. It is said that when he was almost grown up there approached him two female figures Virtue and Vice The latter wild-"Oh, Hercules, I see you are hesitating about your path in life. If you make a friend of me you shall have the merriest companions and the most exciting amusements in life." The youth then inquired her name, and she answered: "My friends call me pleasure, but my enemies have miscalled me Vice." Meanwhile the other stranger drew near, and said in dignified tones: "Hercules, I in dignified tones: "Hercules, I have your parents, and, from what I have seen of you, believe you capable of noble deeds. I shall not delude you with false promises. If you wish the gods to be propitious you must worship them; if you wish to be beloved by your friends you must serve them; if you seek to be honoured by any city, you must benefit it. Above ali, in order to become vigorous, you must accustom your body to obey your mind, and submit to stern discipline." Vice again tried to calole him, but he preferred the surer path and the higher joy presented by Virtue.

Every true man desires to be strong Every man can be through. Christ a Christ'an Hercules, a man of the here type But it must be by of the here type. But it must be by his own volition, his own choice, andnow is the necested time-to-day the day of Salvation.

We are sery glad to learn that there is to be no grog-tub in Canada's Navy, as practically all the crew of the Rainbow are teetotalers, and in this respect the first warship bought by Canada is practically unique. We wish that news of a similar character might be applied to Canadian cities. for it appears that the city police of Toronto in one week arrested fearly:two hundred persons for drunk arrested enness, evidence that in one city at least sobriety is on the wane. I found myself in a part of the ship where the state-rooms and dining rooms were most commodio and very comfortably fitted up. This is the third-class accommodation," said the Colonel. "Well I was so surprised that I said to him: 'Why, you must be mistaken: this is surely the second-class. But there was no mistake about it. It was the thirdclass accommodation all right. The Royal George, the Royal Edward, and ships of that class have really splen did third-class accommodation, and, as a matter of fact, so have the bigger chips of the White Star and Allan lines. I may say that an agitation against the open berth system, an agitation in which The Salvation Army has played a strong part, has resulted in the various steamship lines deciding to cut them out altogether.

"By the way, Colonel, how many new-comers has The Army brought into Canada in connection with its immigration work?"

"Approximately fifty Quite a number, isn't it? thous But when it is borne in mind that last year the population of Canada increased by over three hundred thousand it will be seen that while The Salvation Army is a factor in bettering the conditions of thousands of families, it of by any means be said to be flooding the country with immigrants; Some people, you know, have said as mneh

"What have you done with your 50,000 Colonel?"

They are scattered all over the from Halifax to Vancouver. Some are on their own farms, others are with farmers acquiring the know ledge to work a farm to the best advantage. Others again are in the towns and cities. Many of the latter are spending their summer evenings in building their own homes, putting them up, as you know, a roo e or so, and thus in the course of a few years they will have their own nes, and be coaping the reward of their early struggles. It does me good od. How do you find work, Colonel?

"Well, let me say this: We never placed our people so easily as we have done during the past year. That says something for the prosperous condition of Canada, don't you think? And I must also say that we have never had more applications for workers, and a better class to send to those who need them than we are having now, while the prespects for benefitting a deserving class of peo-ple and adding desirable people to country's population are excel-

THE GENERAL

Addresses Crowds of Visitors in the SALVATION CADETS. Harrogate Kursaal.

THE MAYOR, CAPTAIN BOYD CARPENTER, WELCOMES OUR LEADER ON BEHALF OF THE TOWN AND CORPORATION.

UST to think! 1 did so wish to see him! He's a grand old man. 'Now, Lord, lettest Thou Thy servant depart in Thus spoke a silver-haired lady whose invalid-chair had been placed in a position from which she could see The General on his arrival at Harro gate Station on Saturday.

The Kursaal, a gorgeous, glittering paiace of music, is the largest hall in this famous inland health resort, and accommodates 2,000 people.

The visit of The General was in the nature of an experiment, and from the first moment of the day's cam-paign, the question asked was: "Will the people come in on such a delightful day?" Sunday morning's full building provided the answer.

The majority of the crowd was new to The Army; not more than one in five of those present, it was comput-ed, having attended inside Meetings

God's stujendous task—the reclama-tion of the Israelites—The General spoke of how modern difficulties are overcome. As in the land of Goshen gate to day. He still meets with freat difficulties with His people. Those who profit by wickedness are as ob-durate as was Pharaoh; while the crowd to-day are no more anxious for emancination from sin than were many Israelites in Egypt.

Urging a religion of joy, The Gen-

Urging a religion of Joy, The Gen-eral referred to a pleasing incident which was told in a recent issue of The War Cry. It was concerning a convert who was made so happy by Sa'vation that he had to dance round his workshop, and of his two children who woke at 2 n.m. to praise God for sevine daddy.

The Mayor of Harrogate, Captain A. B. Boyd-Carpenter, who presided at the afternoon Meeting, said: "The duty I have to perform is small, but the pleasure is great: for I am offering in the name of Harrogate and the Corporation a welcome to General Booth because he is received as the embodiment of a great religious force and as a social reformer. I offer him and The Sa'vation Army our grateful thanks for the great work they have done on behalf of that portion of the community which has been little touched by other religious forces, 1 sincerely hope he will take away from the town a recognition of the fact that few places appreciate his great work as does Harrogate."

From the commencement of his address The General was listened to with the closest attention. The Army with the closest attention. 'In earning has had everything to learn, he said, beginning as it did with one man forty-five years ago, "and yet look at the result and tell me if it does not deserys well of the community?" The glory of the Sa'vationist is the re-generation of downright bad men and women, for The General's motic is not only go for the poorest, but go for the worst. He (The General) considered that The Salvation Army had unusual ability to make itself equally at home amongst the poor and rich.

The General's address showed The Army's familiarity with the conditions and needs of those who live on the night side of existence, and his pro-posals for dealing with vagrants appealed especially to the councillors and guardians present.

Alderman Balmfurth, in proposing a vote of thanks, said The General was a marvel (a bumorous "Hear, hear!" from The General). He ques tioned whether many young men could stand the ordeal of speaking for an hour and a half as he had steed it. As for The Army's critics, he main tained that these people would criti-cise anything that was an outcome of Christianity. He had enjoyed The General's address, and especially his reference to The Army's method of dealing with finances.

Mr. Wesley Pettle, in seconding the resolution, said: "Twenty years ago I first became associated with General Booth in connexion with the launching of The Darkest England Scheme when The General met the burgesses of this town and thanked them for the assistance they had renthem for the assistance they had ren-dered. On that occasion The General placed his hand on my shoulder, and said: "I should like you to become one of my licutenante." I was unable to avail myself of that invitation, but I have watched the progress of The Salvation Army ever since, and have seen what it has accomplished for the poorest and the lost, and I say: "Long live The General!"

"Mr. Chairman." continued Mr. Pettie, "your father, the Bishop of Ripon, said the other day that it was time for all Christian people to sink minor differences. If this is not at once possible we can, at any rate, support The Salvation Army, and do all we can to uphold The General's hands in the undenominational work he has undertaken." If the morning and afternoon Meetings had been great, what can be said of that at night? General Booth on the Importance of the First Step.

Three bundred and fifty cadets from the international Training Home were at the Salvation Army Headquarters, Clapton, on Monday, commissioned for service as Officers of The Army in Great Britain and abroad. The cadeta included Miss Florence Miriam Booth (third daughter of Mr. Bramwell Booth and granddaughter of the General), several Japanese, and natives of Cevlon.

General Booth sent the following message to the Cadets:

Everyone knows the importance of the first step in any matter, whether it be in walking or work-ing, in business or religion. It is very often the first step that de-termines not only the direction you will take, the pace at which you will travel, and the character of the journey, but, more important still it frequently decides the destination you will ultimately reach. To-night you will be called upon to take the first step in your, public life. That step will launch public life. That step was some you out as leaders in the most imman or woman can possibly be enman or woman can possibly be engaged. FINDING GOD.

By COMMISSIONER HOWARD.

"Ye shall seek Me, and find Me, when ye shall search for Me with all your heart." (Jeremiah xxix.: 12.)

HE words of Jeremiah in their relation to God are very appropriate for men and women in whose hearts there is any long. HE words of Jereminh in ing after personal Holiners. 1.00k at them: 'Ye shall seek Me, and find Me, when ye shall search for Ma with all your heart." I like this word, be cause it turns our minds to the and only source of light and the and power. We speak of seeking and zero ting the blessing; but, in reality, the object is to find God, and that delta erance and blessing which get to a cured only from Him.

In our prayers and sours we press a great fact when we say: niffs, alas! cannot suffee on is- Thy

We are men and women to thus seek God, be anse He alone can me t their reed; H: dione can save after the fashion that Crey need a Saviour; He alone, having forgiven, can break the power of sin, and deales from natural importty.

But the real trouble with some is that they do not seek Full Salvarion with that for purpose of bears which The products words intoly. In a subsection want the Ideastry, but I from their dis not want it enough to note then put their whole best into seeking Gross can affiling power possessing and dwelling within us if we are to live the life and do the work which Full Salvation implies. To realize this Divine union is as essential as to experience the forgiveness of ain. We must know Ged as we'll as Worship Him, and the text I have read indicates to us that the discovery a personal God belongs to the "Ye shall seek Me, and find heart: Me, when ye shall search for Me with all your heart."

God's power displayed in Nature may be perceived by the eye, the ear, and other organs of the senses. On the lines of the Psaimist, we may une lines of the Psaimist, we may walk out at night, and consider the heavens the work of His fungers, and exclaim: "All Thy works praise Thee;" "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament showeth His handlwork." The mind also by reflection and deduction may clothe the Creator with attributes or clothe the Creator with authorities of qualities of character, such as Almishty skill and benevolence; but "spiritual things are spiritually dis-terned;" and it is only when God reveals Himself to the heart that He is truly known as a personal Father. Friend, and Saviour.

To the formal religionist or the casual dealer in pious phrases and occasional prayers, these revelations do not come. It is when the heart is attend our Meetings, but do not obtain the blessing? You are holding on to things about which it requires no stretch of imagination to Christ say: "If ye seek Me, let these go their way." He desires to be your Saviour and Sauctifier, but cannot until you drop the things which hinder and which come between you and Him.

Some of these things may not be positively evil in themselves, but they are associated with things which are evil or questionable; doubtful pursuits, questionable friendsbips or conduct. Do you care enough about God and Heliness to drop all such? Same have not done so up to the preent, and it is about these very things which hinder that Jesus says to you: "If ye seek Me, le! these things go." Then, again, some have not found God as a perfect Sanctifier, because their minds are not fully made up as to the lines of service and daty. The general meaning of our various topics may be put thus: "Holiness, and what comes out of it." Not simply spiritual blessings as an inward experience, but a gift to be lived out daily toil and effort to spread the Kingdom. We must have that teaching will be rightly resp. We must have that or our "goody goody." and be of little real

A very fine young woman, on the ccasion of my visit to a certain occasion of my visit to a certain town, offered herself as a Candidate for Army Officership Hearing that the case did not mature, I inquired a little later, from an Officer who had seen her, what the difficulty was, and be repeated to me the explanation she had given him: "Well Colonel. I bave changed my mind; I have left The Army and become a Christian." That seems a strange putting of the position; but I fear that it was her, as with some of you who have sought to dodge the cross, escape the toil, and evade the testimony, the sacrifice, and the service which are indispensable to the maintenance of Holiness. Instead of trying to escape from duty as it is revealed to us from day to day, our hearts should be turned up to the idea in the song, which

For thee delightfully employ

Whate'er Thy bounteous grace hath given;

And run my course with even joy.

And closely walk with Thee to Heaven.

The central thought of Jeremiah's test is beautifully illustrated in the Parable of the Lost Piece of Silver. took at this woman's anxious concern and corresponding action; she lights the candle—that is, uses what light she has; she sweeps the house turns everything over; she searches diligently-keeps at it, not giving up al the first disappointment. Observe also the effect upon herself when her search is successful. Full of satisfaction she calls in her neighbours and friends: "Rejoice with me, for I have found the niece which I had lost." Loud in her testimony, she delights in making her blessing known. You see this woman so valued the piece of silver, that she gave herself the search for it, and nothing satisthe field her until she found it. When more supposite the importance of having a clean heart and the blessing God like that, they will not seek long without result.

There are two or three things implied in this whole-hearted search after God which need to be emphasized. Of these I will name, first, in-tensity of desire. There are blessings that come like God's rain and sunshine, sought or unsought; but no man ever got a clean heart who did not badly want it; and if God is to sanctify and keep you in the enjoy ment of the blessing, your heart will have to be moved by strong desire.

Jesus put it clearly when He talked about "hungering and thirsting." Even prayer, without strong desire, does not accomplish much. "What things not accomplish much. "What things soever ye desire"; it is that which gives intensity to your prayers, as well as "believing that ye receive." The Psalmist's words are equally fit-ting—"As the hart panteth after the water brooks"-as the hunted deer longs for the stream—"so panieth my soul after Thee, O God." That means more than a contention for the doc-trine, more than a sentimental admiration of Holineas. It implies the deep stirrings of conviction, the heart mov-ed by strong cravings, the crying out:

od by atrong cravings, the crims out.

'Ob, that I might find Him whom my soul desireth.'

This whole-hearted seeking the breating also impiles fullness of intention. How often I have spokes of the relation of the will; the choice. the setting of the mind in strong pur-pose, he decision—"I sught, I must. I secure Cod's mandifring bleads (Continent to page 14)

AMONG THE NAVAIO INDIANS.

A Striking Account of a Visit to the Navajos of New Mexico.

A Typical Navajo.—Notice the silver necklet, heaten by the Indians themselves out of Mexican coins...

HE WIDE WORLD con tains a very instructive article on the Navajo Indians of New Mexico. The author spent a fortnight in th Navajo reservation, and after describing the circumstances that led to the expedition, and the start, says: At this stage of the proceedings two or three Indians usually rode up, and checking their ponies a few paces away looked curiously on. Sometimes they cantered off in a few minutes, but oftener they dismounted, rolled a cigarette, lit it at our fire, and stood clearette, lit it at our fire, and a stood leisurely smoking. Types of a race that has often been beaten but never enslaved, they for ned a picture which we always enjoyed looking at. We made if a rule to offer them a share of our meal, which was generally secepted with dignity, but never bessed for. In the matter of eating we soon discovered that those indians had very decided views. Our, canned sarvery decided with the stood have none of. This, we were informed by Red, who discussed the subject at some length with one of them, we because they believed that fish would come to life in the stomach and swim there, to the great discomfort of the stomach's owner. Once, to our surprise, a stripling who visited us at our camp as we were at supper declined emphatically a tasty plate of begans.

Chin-dee," he observed, laconically, "Stim-dee," he observed, laconleally, with a dissatisfied glance at our fire. Now, we had been proud of that particular fire, having heen fortunate in securing some expecially fine, dry pleres of timber from the charter makes of an old hut, and they had made a good hed of embers—a result impossible from the sernes of sage-brush and greasewood knots upon which we had often to depend. As the Navajo moved away, Red explained:

which we had not a way, Red explained:

I knew he wouldn't eat antyhing cooked with that wood. You seem to knew he wouldn't eat antyhing the high cooked with that wood. You seem to knew his folks not the to-lab logan (int) and all his belongings, because they think there's deylis in them; and they won't use the charted wood to cuok with for feat the devils will get into the grup, and so into themselves. Entering If with our team at Chin Lee, we left the workaday world behind us, and found ourselves in a land of enchantment. The floor of the canyon is flat and sandy, and it winds its sinuous course mile after mile between walls of perpendicular, flat-faced rock hundreds of feet high sometimes so marrow as to shut out. flatfaced rock hundreds of feet high -sometimes so narrow as to shu to the sun, at other places widening out into sunit coves and wild-grass mea-dows, where clustered reeds rustled in the breeze and wild-flowers bloom-cd. A tricking stream of sweet water cut a shallow channel in the sand, cut a snaiow (channel in the sand, when we were there, but often in the year it is dry. Even then, however, water is readily obtainable by secoping out challow wells a fect or two deep in the sand, which soon accumulate a supply for both horse and man.

The canyon is a favourite home of the Navajos, whose hogans are set singly here and there along the base of the towering ciliffs wherever there is land suitable for the raising of their small crops of corn, beans, and melons. In these situations, too, the peach flourishes, and many trifty orchards are to be found dating from the days of the Spanish conquistadores, who introduced, the seed. The lusclous pinky-white fruit was just ripe at the time of our visit, furnishing to Navajos old and young one of the memorable feasts of the year. Agriculture, however, is a side issue with these Indians, who are, above all a pastoral people, and their canyon is musical with the bleating of flocks of sheep and soats, shepherded by old men and boys. There was a great clatter behind us, and three or four ladians on ranning nonless dashed past us with shrill whoops and were swarlowed up in the darkness ahead. The quavering note of an owl floated out from a neighbouring tree, and far away on the plain coyotes were peeriably yelpidge. Then, faintly at first and gradually increasing in volume as we drove, our cars caught the strain of chorused music—the wild, rhythmic minor of an ludian chant:

SALVATION SONGS.

Holiness.

Tunes-"Oh, the Voice," 56; "Bel-mont," 24.

I heard the voice of Jesus say,
"Come unto Me, and rest;
Lay down, thou weary one, lay down
Thy head upon My breast."

I heard the voice of Jesus say.
"Behold I freely give
The living water—thirsty one,
Stoop down, and drink, and live."

I came to Jesus, and I drank
Of that life-giving stream;
My thirst was quenched, my soul revived,
And now I live in Him!

Tunes-Euphony, 116; Stella 120; Song-Boow, No. 783.

O God, what offering shall I give To Thee, the Lord of earth and skies?

skies?

My soul, my life, my all receive,
A holy, living sacrifice.

Small as it is, tis all my store;
More shouldst Thou have if I had

Now, then, my God, Thou hast my

No longer mine, but Thine I am; unrd Thou Thine own, possess it whole, Cheer it with hope, with love in-

Thou hast my spirit; there display Thy glory to the perfect day.

Thou hast my flesh. Thy hallowed

War and Testimony.

Tunes-"The Day of Victory's Coming," or "I'd Choose to me a Soldler."

dier.'

J Fight on, fight on for Jesus, ye Soidlers of the Cross.'
Lift high Jila royal banner—it must not suffer loss;
From victory unto victory His Army shall He lead
Christ is Lord indeed.

Fight on, fight on for Jesus! Stand in His strength alone. The arm of fiesh will fall you—ye dare not trust your own;

Put on salvation armor, and watch-ing unto prayer, Where duty calls or danger, be never wanting there.

- The Best Friends. Tune—"The Best Friends."

I once was very worldly,
The same as many more,
But since I've been to Jesus
He's saved me, I am sure,
and if you're only willing
To give up all your sin,
My Saviour He is waiting,
I'm sure, to take you in.

Chorus: The Light of the World is Jesus.

I have my little troubles,
I have my trials, too. I have my little troubles,
I have my triels, too,
But I am very thankful
I've One to take the mto;
He never does deceive me.
But tells me what to do,
And if you'll only trust Him
He'll do the same for you.

Salvation.

Tunes—"Blessed Lord, in Thee," 169; Song-Book No. 169.

Song-Hook No. 163.

Pity, Lord, a wretched sinner,
One whose sins for vengeance
cry,
Groaning 'neath his heavy burden.
Throbbing heart and heaving sigh,
O, my Savlour!
Canst Thou let a sinner die?

He will save thee. He has promised
To attend unto the promised To attend unto the praper:
Still He cries, in faltering accents,
Jesus, Oh. In mercy spare!
Spare the sinner;
Jesus, Oh, in mercy spare!

Tunes-Wells 21, C & Eb; Spanish Chant, 90; Song-Book, No. 170.

6. Rock of Ages, eleft for me.
Let me bide myself in thee,
Let the water and the blood
From Thy wounded side which flowed.
Be of sin the double care. Save from wrath, and make me pure

Could my tears for ever flow.
Could my zeal no languor know,
These for sin could not atone.
Thou must save, and Thou alone,
In my hands no price I bring,
Simply to Thy cross f cling.

While I draw this fleeting breath. When my eyes shall close in death. When I ties to works unknown. See Thee on Thy indgment throne. Rock of Ages, cleft for me, I will hide myself in Thee.
